Description

Polk SDA-II Speakers

A couple of speakers from designer

extra-ordinaire
Matthew Polk
and these are out of his flagship series SDA an
anachronism
for Stereo
Dimensional
Array. You
have to hear
the incredible
sound stage
accomplished
by each
speaker box
canceling unwanted
components
from the other
speaker box.
In order to invoke this cancellation
process a special cable is supplied and
connected
between the two boxes.
This design is protected
under U.S.
Patent
4.489.432. Not only that the sound stage is so wonderfully
realistic but
the tonal
quality is absolutely
awesome,
again
accomplished
by a superb
tweeter design ( as you
noticed one
was replaced
with a newer
version, that looks slightly different but has the exact
same
characteristics
as the original)
and the smaller woofers with superbly better

transient response than the large woofers used in inferior designs. It is therefore far better to use a multiple smaller woofer than a single sluggish woofer and.... these puppies are back loaded by a passive radiator for dynamic back loading. The result is a very smooth yet very tight bass and the type of back loading provides for high efficiency. With 20 or so watts of energy obtained from your power amp you will have the neighbors complaining. My suggestion at this point is to not hesitate, but to immediately put a fat bid on these glorious acoustic transducers. For those of you who are into weight lifting, each weighs 62 lbs and measures 16 X 11 3/4 X 39 1/4.
